The invocation was offered by David Whittington, pastor, Christ Our King Church, Southlake, as follows:

Almighty, all-powerful, eternal, one and only God, you are the creator and sustainer of all that exists. You and you alone are God, and there is none other. You are the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, the God of the ancient prophets and the Apostles of Jesus. You are the one to whom all will give an account.

I acknowledge your presence and your authority over this august assembly today. I give you thanks for all the good gifts that come to the people of this great state. I acknowledge that your care and concern for this land have been expressed for hundreds of years. Those gentle padres who came here from Spain over 400 years ago, bearing your name and proclaiming your authority and your grace, were an expression of your loving concern for this place.

Priests, ministers, preachers, and pastors have covered this state with your word and your message of both judgment and forgiveness. Rich and poor, old and young, political leaders and citizens of every ethnic and national origin proclaim faith in you and agree that Texas is God's country. Thank you for such a blessed heritage.

I ask you in the spirit of humility and repentance to continue to consider our frailty and to forgive our transgressions against your law. Forgive us, not on the basis of our own goodness, but on the meritorious sacrifice of your son.

I humbly ask that you consider the members of this body before me and give them the grace and strength to lead with the wisdom that comes from you. Give them each one a servant's heart and your strength to sustain them. Loving Father, protect them from the bane of leaders: greed, corruption of power, and personal immorality. Protect them in the stress of governing, and keep your hand on their families. Keep them clearheaded in the smoke of conflict and compromise. I thank you for each and every one here assembled.

With respect for persons of all religions, I offer this prayer in the name of my Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. And now may the life-giving Father go with you; the risen son stay beside you; the vibrant Holy Spirit be within you, now and forever. Amen.

The speaker recognized Representative Truitt who led the house in the pledges of allegiance to the United States and Texas flags.

CAPITOL PHYSICIAN

The speaker recognized Representative Kolkhorst who presented Dr. Henry David Boehm of Brenham as the "Doctor for the Day."
