The invocation was offered by Robert E. Webb, senior pastor, Westminster United Methodist Church, Houston, as follows:

Gracious and loving God, I give you thanks and praise for the privilege I have of living in what I consider the greatest state in the United States of America—Texas, our Texas. No doubt, O God, others feel the same about their state. And that's a good thing. Help us remember we are all part of a great nation that has been wondrously blessed. And today we pause to give you thanks for those blessings.

It is with a humble heart that I stand before your throne and this gathering of dedicated men and women to lift up a prayer that I hope will convey my deep appreciation and respect for the work they do and for the role you play in each of their lives. I am very much encouraged to know that these proceedings are opened daily by calling upon your guiding presence. May that continue to be the custom of the house of representatives for the great State of Texas.

Father, the discussions and decisions this group of representatives make on a daily basis affect the lives of so many across this great state. To consider that they might do so without going first to you in prayer is almost unthinkable. How I hope and pray all government officials across this great nation seek your counsel in all they say and do.

We are blessed to live in the great State of Texas. And I know these men and women before me are honored to be elected by the people of the Lone Star State to represent them at this highest level of our state's legislature. Lord, guide them in the decisions they make. Help them to remember not only those they directly represent, but also help them to remember that many of their decisions will affect all the people of Texas.

These are challenging times for your people, O God. There are so many pressing needs, not only in this state, but this nation, this world. No doubt, these who stand before me feel this burden of responsibility upon their shoulders each and every day. Help them carry those burdens, O God. Help those of us whom they represent to appreciate the difficulty of their tasks as state representatives and to demonstrate our loyalty as citizens of this state by faithfully implementing and following the legislation they pass.

Bless each of their families. Keep them safe as they travel to and from their homes. Help them to focus in these coming days on the great challenges before them. May all they say and do be pleasing and acceptable in your sight, O God, our rock and our redeemer. Lord, all these things we pray in your most precious and holy name. Amen.
