We find in your word that wisdom comes from you, and therefore we graciously seek to serve the people of this great state in the best way possible. For these reasons, we solicit your blessings upon our governor, his staff, and these many men and women who represent us in so many ways. We thank you that you will also watch over our armed forces in the many assignments that they perform.

Endow these men and women with your spirit as they lead this great State of Texas. Supply them with strength and endurance to meet the many challenges they face. Finally, Father, your guidance is imminent if they are to perform the tasks that lie ahead. May you graciously provide an answer to every need and concern as they carry out the business of the State of Texas. We ask this with thanksgiving and grace.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER CRADDICK REGARDING PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY BY REPRESENTATIVE GALLEGO

Speaker Craddick had read the following statement:

Yesterday, Mr. Gallego made several parliamentary inquiries related to procedures for setting special orders under Rule 6, Section 2, of the House Rules. Mr. Gallego also asked the chair to state his intent regarding HJR 1, the constitutional amendment to provide property tax relief to Texas seniors.

Rule 6, Section 2, allows a special order to be set on the same day if a motion is made during the routine motion period and if the motion to set carries by two-thirds of the members present. A routine motion is not a privileged matter.

According to the parliamentarian's office, the house has recognized members to set a matter as a special order twice since 1997. In 1997, on May 13th, Ms. Wohlgemuth was recognized for a motion to set a special order on HB 3464 and that motion failed. Last session, on April 28th, the chair initially declined to recognize Mr. Merritt for his motion to set HB 1348 as a special order but then decided to allow Mr. Merritt to be recognized for his motion even though it was not timely. (See H.J. page 2392 and following, 79th Legislature, April 28, 2005.) That motion failed 95-36. The timing of these recognitions is important.

The chair notes that in both of these instances, the legislation at issue was eligible for consideration and had been in committee for a substantial period of time. HJR 1, the legislation at issue in this case, was referred to committee on January 29th, and it is the chair's understanding that HJR 1 is scheduled to be heard this week by the House Committee on Ways and Means.

As you know, following the 30th day of session, committees have begun meeting to consider legislation. It is the chair's intent for all of these bills to move through the committee process. The committee process allows parties with varying interests to testify before a group of members and allows the collected wisdom of the members to consider the issue.
