The speaker recognized Representative Darby who introduced Michael J. Sis, bishop, Diocese of San Angelo, San Angelo, who offered the invocation as follows:

All-powerful God, we praise you, and we thank you for another day of life. We take a moment this morning to ask your help for all those affected by the wildfires in the Panhandle, Oklahoma, Kansas, and other places. Please guide and protect all those who are seeking to come to their assistance.

As the members of our house of representatives begin their deliberations this day, we ask for your guidance and inspiration in their work. Open their ears to listen to one another attentively. Open their mouths to express themselves with clarity and mutual respect. Open their eyes to the needs of all our people—the young and the old, the rich and the poor, the powerful and the most vulnerable.

Open their minds to grasp the complexities of the issues before them. Give them your gifts of wisdom, understanding, fortitude, and humility. Open their hearts to whatever is your holy will.

We pray to you for the health and safety of our representatives, their families, their staff, and all those who serve in the daily operations of our state government. Whatever power and influence you put into their hands, help them to use it constructively and prudently in service of the common good. We entrust these prayers to you, our God, who live and reign forever and ever. Amen.

The speaker recognized Representative Goldman who led the house in the pledges of allegiance to the United States and Texas flags.
