The invocation was offered by Ryan M. Hart, pastor, Open Cathedral, Leander, as follows:

Mother God, father of us all, spirit of wonder and love, truth that permeates our existence, it is so easy for us to feel disconnected, it is so tempting to find enemies wherever we go. There are so many lines between us, right and wrong, good and bad, right and left, progressive and conservative. We draw lines in the sand, we draw lines on paper, we draw lines between us, but the most meaningful of lines is the one drawn around us all. The holiest of lines is the line that encompasses us all, the line that draws us into one beloved family. You teach us, we are reminded, that we know the truth. That though we are different; though our families, our cultures, our experiences, our religions, our origins, our identities are different; though we are unique—we are one family, one people, one created universe of love.

The beauty of nature, the strength of Texas, the wisdom of God is not in conformity but in diversity bathed in love. So may we be brave enough to love someone who is hard to love. May we be strong enough to serve those who cannot repay our work. May we be wise enough to learn from someone not at all like us. And most of all, may we have faith in the goodness within us, you and me, faith in the goodness in each other, the goodness that draws us together into one family, now and forever. Amen.

The chair recognized Representative Morales who led the house in the pledges of allegiance to the United States and Texas flags.

SB 1189 ON THIRD READING
(Capriglione, Rose, Leach, Sheffield, Zerwas, et al. - House Sponsors)

SB 1189, A bill to be entitled An Act relating to certain deceptive advertising of legal services.

SB 1189 - STATEMENT OF LEGISLATIVE INTENT

REPRESENTATIVE MARTINEZ FISCHER: Mr. Chairman, I intend to vote for this bill. I just wanted you to clear up a couple of things. Looking at the HRO, I noticed a professor from St. Mary's Law School, which is in San Antonio right outside the district I represent, who seems to be an authority on constitutional issues. And as I read the HRO, I understand why we want to regulate misleading advertisements in any space whether it's the practice of law or anything else. But I'm concerned in reading Professor Johnson's remarks and reading the HRO, is this an attempt to sort of regulate truthful advertisements or just misleading advertisements?

REPRESENTATIVE CAPRIGLIONE: There's always been the practice that if there's deceptive or fraudulent advertising, of course the government has an interest in protecting consumers and those that listen to that advertising. So there's no intent here to regulate or to stop anything but regular advertising. The reality, though, is that there's always been the precedent to allow for disclosures and that sort of thing.

MARTINEZ FISCHER: Sure. And again, I guess the compelling state interests—I'm just mindful of United States Supreme Court authority that talks about commercial free speech. And as long as advertisements are truthful—I guess that's a matter for someone else to decide—but the state would have to have a very high compelling interest to regulate truthful advertisements as opposed to untruthful or misleading advertisements. Would you agree with me?

CAPRIGLIONE: I would say that, obviously, truthful is telling people exactly who you are and what you are. So in some cases what we see in advertisements is that not all of that information is provided, not all of that information is clear. And if the way that it's said or the way that it's stated results in actions that could harm individuals, then that should also be regulated.

MARTINEZ FISCHER: Also just practically speaking, the district I represent has a number of law offices. As you know, I practice law for a living, and for those who advertise and practice law at the same time, does this set up sort of two different networks in terms of how one is going to follow advertising and standards by the State Bar and then is there another set of standards that would be imposed by this law?

CAPRIGLIONE: We had an amendment that was put on yesterday that essentially does provide for the State Bar to look and review, like it does already, for attorney advertisements. So what we're going to still look at—and I hope the State Bar looks at—in all of this advertising is that it is not deceptive, that it is truthful, that it is not misleading, and that it doesn't cause harm to the public.

MARTINEZ FISCHER: And in the essence of this as I understand it, not to put words in your mouth, this law will help focus on how things are said as opposed to whether they're being truthful or not. Is that what the aim is with this legislation?

CAPRIGLIONE: Well, when we laid this out in committee—I do wish I could have the television behind me to show you what some of these advertisements would say and not say. It was unclear. A lot of the text, a lot of the font, was very small. A lot of the disclosure was not really there. Some of these advertisements kind of insinuated that it was a medical opinion. Some of these advertisements spoke very quickly. Some mumbled like I do sometimes, right? So what we want to do is make sure that those that are watching these ads don't do something that—

MARTINEZ FISCHER: And I don't disagree. We have a small collection of things we've bought on TV based on what we saw on the advertisement. So I know there's a difference. And again, if the aim is to really focus on the misleading and the deceptive, I understand that not just in the legal space, in any space. But with regard to folks that are out there just advocating and advertising and being truthful, you and I both recognize that there's a distinction there that does have a difference.

CAPRIGLIONE: And I think it would also include the truth and the whole truth. So that would include who's paying for the ads and who's behind some of this.

MARTINEZ FISCHER: I appreciate it. Thank you for my questions. I intend to vote for your bill.

REPRESENTATIVE S. DAVIS: Representative, just so the body's clear, the U.S. Supreme Court rulings have made it clear that while attorneys have a right to advertise their services, states in fact can act to prevent false, deceptive, and misleading advertising. And the court has also upheld restrictions on ads that "unduly" influence individuals who are injured or distressed and restrictions on truthful, non-misleading advertisements that advance a substantial government influence. Is that your understanding of the law?

CAPRIGLIONE: That's right. In fact, there was a case, which is Bates v. State Bar of Arizona, where their decision prohibited blanket bans on the ability of lawyers who truthfully advertise their services. The First Amendment's protection of commercial speech, the Supreme Court found, does not allow rules that prohibit lawyers from truthfully advertising, but they reaffirmed in Bates that advertising that is false, deceptive, or misleading, of course, is subject to restraint.

S. DAVIS: And subsequently, United States Supreme Court decisions have upheld restrictions on attorney advertising that unduly influences people who are injured and distressed, including restrictions on soliciting patients at hospitals or accident sites. Is that correct?

CAPRIGLIONE: That's correct.

S. DAVIS: I know that there are some examples of restrictions that have been upheld, but I think the point of what you are trying to do here is the prevention of consumer deception and the protection of public health. And those are considered substantial interests under the First Amendment. Is that correct?

CAPRIGLIONE: They are of significant interest for the government to be involved in. That's correct.

S. DAVIS: And it's my understanding that the FDA has documented instances through its adverse event reporting system of people seeing attorney advertisements, becoming alarmed about the drugs that they are taking, and then discontinuing use of those medicines that are critical to their health. And this has led to serious complications and in some cases death. Is that your understanding?

CAPRIGLIONE: That is, and in our committee hearing we provided documentation and recent documentation from the federal government that shows just how many individuals have been harmed from these types of advertisements.

S. DAVIS: So your legislation is narrowly tailored, really, to serve the government's interest?

CAPRIGLIONE: That's exactly what it's for.

S. DAVIS: And the use of terms like medical alert, health alert, drug alert, and public service announcement and recall in legal service advertising can suggest some type of authoritative sponsorship or endorsement of the ads' content. Is that correct?

CAPRIGLIONE: Yes, those are clearly misleading and hope to cause an action by an individual. So in that case they're misleading—deliberately misleading.

S. DAVIS: I appreciate your bill and the clarity that I think that we've been able to show to the members.

SB 1511 ON THIRD READING
(Cyrier, Toth, Martinez, Holland, Bucy, et al. - House Sponsors)

SB 1511, A bill to be entitled An Act relating to the operation of the Battleship "Texas."

SB 1511 - REMARKS

REPRESENTATIVE CYRIER: Members, this is a bill to save our Battleship Texas.

REPRESENTATIVE CAIN: Mr. Cyrier, we were talking this morning about some things. I was hoping maybe you could clarify some of the stuff we discussed about the intentions of not returning it to San Jacinto and the reasons for that?

CYRIER: The reasons were that, as you know, there was a study done by the Battleship Foundation that showed that at its current location at the San Jacinto battlefield, it doesn't generate enough revenue. As a matter of fact, the taxpayers are spending—Texas Parks and Wildlife is having to spend up to $2 million a year where it sits right now because of the corrosion and having to pump the water out.

CAIN: I get that, but if they're spending that money on the corrosion and pumping the water out, won't those problems be solved after it's repaired?

CYRIER: Yes, but the problem is there's not enough revenue also being generated. And there was a study done by Deloitte that showed if it moved to a location like Galveston where there's tourists, where the tourism is at, that it could actually sustain itself in terms of revenue and it could keep the battleship in the positive.

CAIN: And who did that study?

CYRIER: Deloitte.

CAIN: And who paid them to do that study?

CYRIER: Private funds through the Battleship Texas Foundation.

CAIN: And who are some of the people that are on the board of that foundation?

CYRIER: I'm not advised.

CAIN: Anybody that maybe has a financial interest? That owns businesses in Galveston and restaurants and tourist industries there?

CYRIER: I'm not advised.

CAIN: Do you have any concern that, you know, one of the unique things about the San Jacinto Battleground is some people go there to see the ship, and while they're there, they then go and then learn about Texas history by visiting the hallowed grounds of that battlefield and learning about how Texas won independence from a tyrannical federal government of another country. I think that's important. Don't you think that's important?

CYRIER: You know, I think that the historians that I've talked to—and I'll tell you, Mr. Cain, and I know you know this, but there was a lot of work that's been put into this. And I literally went into this session because at times it was looked at that the battleship was going to be transferred over from Texas Parks and Wildlife to Texas Historical Commission. And historians looking at it and looking at where it is on our battlefield from April 21, 1836—having a World War I battleship parked there didn't make sense for the battlefield. Fortunately, I believe it's 23 acres that we're going to be gaining of our original battlefield site. Now that it's in the hands—we did make the transfer, as you probably know. We made the transfer from Parks and Wildlife of the battlefield site to Texas Historical Commission. With that and the work that's being done, we're also gaining about 23 more acres of that battlefield site. Historians believe that it really is out of place. The battleship is out of place being there. But again, the main concern right now is it's not generating the revenue. The battleship is not generating the revenue funds to be able to sustain it.

CAIN: I do want to clarify something for the body and to you, Mr. Cyrier. A moment ago I made some implications about maybe people's motives for Galveston, and I would like to retract that. That was not intentional, and it may be a little reckless. So I didn't want to impugn your motives or anybody on the foundation's motives, so if the body hears that and anybody listening, thank you, Mr. Cyrier.

REPRESENTATIVE KRAUSE: As I understood the discussion yesterday, it seemed like if we didn't do what your bill did, we had two options, which was to either dry berth it or to scrap it. Is that correct?

CYRIER: That is correct. In the studies that were done, to even scrap the battleship, to scrap the Battleship Texas was $30 million. That's just a rough estimate, but it's $30 million. You've got to understand, this battleship obviously was built like in 1917 for World War I. But over those years it's filled with asbestos, and it also has chemicals. So just to disassemble it, just to scrap it, the estimates are above $30 million. So here's an opportunity to save our battleship, which we're thrilled to be able to do, to save our battleship for roughly around $35 million.

KRAUSE: We've talked a lot about preserving history and making sure future generations can partake in that history. If it's just dry berthed and kind of left to its own devices where it is now, it's not going to tell a lot of the story, right? I mean, we actually need to do this renovation to actually get it to a place where we can actually further the history of this magnificent ship.

CYRIER: Many studies have also looked at dry berthing her, putting her on dry land right there at the same site. The studies done on that were over $100 million—$100 million—and I think this body would agree like I do. We love our battleship, but to spend another $100 million to keep it there and to save it, we just couldn't afford to do.

KRAUSE: Well, I appreciate your work on this. I think just dry berthing it is not wise. I think trying to scrap it is unthinkable. And what you're doing, I think, is helping us preserve a piece of Texas history for generations to come and doing it in the best way possible. So I appreciate your efforts.

CYRIER: I appreciate all your help, Representative Krause.

REPRESENTATIVE PEREZ: Representative, I really appreciate your efforts in trying to save that battleship because that is what I would like to see as well.

CYRIER: Yes, ma'am.

PEREZ: The problems I have with this is that yes, it will cost $80 million to $100 million in order to fully restore her and have her float and do all the other things. I don't believe that if you dry berth her where she is now it's going to cost that $80 million. Do you show a report that—

CYRIER: Yes, I do. Actually, the studies by the Battleship Texas Foundation—which I think that the membership would agree probably loves this battleship more than any of us because of all the efforts that they have put into this—their studies show that to dry berth it, it is over $100 million to dry berth it there in San Jacinto.

PEREZ: Well, given the opportunity, I'd love to see that report because the report that I had was that $100 million was to restore her 100 percent and not dry berth her. But I would like to see that report. Secondly, I've lived by Galveston all the days of my life. The only time Galveston has a really high tourist number is during the summer. During the winter months, no one goes to Galveston. So I don't understand.

CYRIER: I've got notes here from so many people, but let me make this real clear to the body. This bill was not about where the relocation—or if it was going to be relocated. This bill is not about the relocation of the battleship. This bill that Senator Nichols and others on the Senate Finance Committee were tasked to do was able to save our battleship—literally save it—and more importantly, also save taxpayers' money by doing this. And the study that was done by Deloitte—that was paid for by the Battleship Foundation—the study that was done shows that a location like Galveston would sustain the funds and the revenues to sustain our battleship into the future.

PEREZ: Thank you for carrying the bill. I am still saying that this was the intent. The reason the battleship was given to the State of Texas was because the intent was for it to stay at the battleground. I'm all for saving the ship, and I appreciate everything you're doing, but with all due respect, that has always been the intent—to keep it where it sits now.

CYRIER: Respectfully, I will tell you that what I have been told is that it was not the intent that it was supposed to or had to stay there. The U.S. Navy even sent—I gave you that document the other day. The U.S. Navy gave that to the State of Texas. It's in our possession, and never did it say that it must stay there in that one location. And as we have discussed, Representative Perez, I totally understand your concerns and I understand others' concerns of the possibility of it moving to another location. I think everybody in this body understands that. But also, too, with the reports and the studies, we're just fortunate—and I know you agreed on this—we're fortunate we have an opportunity to stop paying more taxpayer money once we get this final fix done and put it in a position where it will actually have revenues to sustain it and maintain it where it's at.

PEREZ: The other problem I have with this is the risk that you're going to run. At this point, and I think we agreed on this yesterday, the ship is not insurable. So do you have documentation that the ship is insurable?

CYRIER: Yes, I do, right here in front of me, and I showed that to you yesterday.

PEREZ: Sir, what you showed me yesterday was a document that says that they do that type of insurance but not that she was officially insurable.

CYRIER: She being the battleship, the insurer that looked at it—they actually had two of them that said, yes, this type of—

CAIN: Really, here is one of my concerns. During the committee hearings, there was really never a mention of Galveston. When we review them and listen to the statements in both the senate testimony and the house testimony, there were allusions to it. They would say, "moving it to a more prominent place" or "moving it to a place where there would be more tourism and make more money." But I believe that had the people known some time ago, before this last week, that the intent was to not return it back to Representative Perez's district, to not return it back to La Porte, to not return it back to the same place that it has been since April 21, 1948—a significant date, being the same date as the Battle of San Jacinto which was April 21, 1836. Had the people known that, there would have been an outcry. And they are just now learning of this. Had they known that this was the goal of the memorandum of understanding, there would have been a lot of Texans here at the Capitol calling upon you, visiting your offices, asking you not to allow it to be moved after its repair. But they weren't told that. They weren't allowed to hear that. That was prevented. I'm not implying that there was malice, but had they known, I think there would have been a different result. So I think the children, especially the amount of schoolchildren that go and visit this site that is so close to Harris County, that they get to do that, they won't be doing that as much down in Galveston, down in a much less populated area. They deserve to go and see this history. I still think this is a great bill, but I do hope that when it goes to conference they keep the amendment on so that when it's returned after being repaired that it goes back to where it's always been.

REPRESENTATIVE FARRAR: When I was chair of the Harris County delegation, we were invited out to the battleground, to the ship actually, to see what was going on. And back then—I believe it was about 20 years ago. This has been a problem for quite some time. One of the things that disturbed me—and I went there as a kid. Many of us in the region went there as a kid so we have sentimental attachments to the area. But I never knew that the ship was actually standing on top of the battleground site. And what occurred to me at the time was that I can't even imagine the artifacts that are sitting below it that may be restored. And maybe back in the '40s people didn't think about that. They didn't understand it so much as we do today. But groups were asking us to please do something about this ship. This is the San Jacinto Battleground. This is what made Texas, Texas. And so it's very, significant to our history. So I stand here glad to support the bill and glad it's finally coming about because at the time it seemed an impossibility, and I ask you for your support as well.

SECTION _____. Section 2210.001, Insurance Code, is amended to read as follows:

Sec. 2210.001. PURPOSE. The primary purpose of the Texas Windstorm Insurance Association is the provision of an adequate market for windstorm and hail insurance in the seacoast territory of this state and tornado insurance and wildfire insurance statewide. The legislature finds that the provision of adequate windstorm and hail insurance, tornado insurance, and wildfire insurance is necessary to the economic welfare of this state, and without that insurance, the orderly growth and development of this state would be severely impeded. This chapter provides a method by which adequate windstorm and hail insurance may be obtained in certain designated portions of the seacoast territory of this state and tornado insurance and wildfire insurance may be obtained statewide. The association is intended to serve as a residual insurer of last resort for windstorm and hail insurance in the seacoast territory and tornado insurance and wildfire insurance statewide. The association shall:

(1) function in such a manner as to not be a direct competitor in the private market; and

(2) provide windstorm and hail insurance coverage, tornado insurance coverage, and wildfire insurance coverage to those who are unable to obtain ~~that~~ coverage in the private market.

SECTION _____. Section 2210.003, Insurance Code, is amended by amending Subdivision (6) and adding Subdivisions (14), (15), and (16) to read as follows:

(6) "Insurance" means:

(A) Texas windstorm and hail insurance;

(B) tornado insurance; and

(C) wildfire insurance.

(14) "Tornado insurance" means insurance against:

(A) direct loss to insurable property incurred as a result of a tornado, as those terms are defined and limited in policies and forms approved by the department; and

(B) indirect losses resulting from the direct loss.

(15) "Wildfire" means an uncontrolled blaze fueled by weather, wind, and dry underbrush, trees, grasses, and other flammable material.

(16) "Wildfire insurance" means insurance against:

(A) direct loss to insurable property incurred as a result of wildfire, as those terms are defined and limited in policies and forms approved by the department; and

(B) indirect losses resulting from the direct loss.

SECTION _____. Sections 2210.004(a), (b), (c), and (d), Insurance Code, are amended to read as follows:

(a) Except as provided by Subsection (h), for purposes of this chapter and subject to this section, "insurable property" means immovable property at a fixed location in a catastrophe area or corporeal movable property located in that immovable property, as designated in the plan of operation, that is determined by the association according to the criteria specified in the plan of operation to be in an insurable condition against windstorm and hail, tornado, and wildfire, as determined by normal underwriting standards. The term includes property described by Section 2210.209.

(b) A structure located in a catastrophe area, construction of which began on or after the 30th day after the date of publication of the plan of operation, that is not built in compliance with building specifications set forth in the plan of operation or continued in compliance with those specifications, does not constitute an insurable risk for purposes of windstorm and hail insurance, tornado insurance, or wildfire insurance except as otherwise provided by this chapter.

(c) A structure, or an addition to a structure, that is constructed in conformity with plans and specifications that comply with the specifications set forth in the plan of operation at the time construction begins may not be declared ineligible for windstorm and hail insurance, tornado insurance, or wildfire insurance as a result of subsequent changes in the building specifications set forth in the plan of operation.

(d) Except as otherwise provided by this section, if repair of damage to a structure involves replacement of items covered in the building specifications set forth in the plan of operation, the repairs must be completed in a manner that complies with those specifications for the structure to continue to be insurable property for windstorm and hail insurance, tornado insurance, and wildfire insurance.

SECTION _____. Sections 2210.005(a) and (c), Insurance Code, are amended to read as follows:

(a) After at least 10 days' notice and a hearing, the commissioner may designate, with respect to windstorm and hail insurance, an area of the seacoast territory of this state as a catastrophe area or, with respect to tornado insurance and wildfire insurance, any area of this state as a catastrophe area if the commissioner determines, unless such a determination results in an adverse impact to the exposure of the association, that windstorm and hail insurance, tornado insurance, or wildfire insurance is not reasonably available to a substantial number of the owners of insurable property located in the area [~~that territory~~] because the area [~~territory~~] is subject to unusually frequent and severe damage resulting from windstorms, [~~or~~] hailstorms, tornadoes, or wildfires.

(c) If the association determines that windstorm and hail insurance, tornado insurance, or wildfire insurance is no longer reasonably unavailable to a substantial number of owners of insurable property in a territory designated as a catastrophe area, the association may request in writing that the commissioner revoke the designation. After at least 10 days' notice and a hearing, but not later than the 30th day after the date of the hearing, the commissioner shall:

- (1) approve the request and revoke the designation; or
- (2) reject the request.

SECTION _____. Section 2210.015(a), Insurance Code, is amended to read as follows:

The study must address as possible incentives the mandatory or voluntary issuance of windstorm and hail insurance, tornado insurance, and wildfire insurance in conjunction with the issuance of a homeowners policy ~~in the seacoast territory~~.

SECTION _____. Section 2210.053(b), Insurance Code, is amended to read as follows:

(b) The department may develop programs to improve the efficient operation of the association, including a program for approving policy forms under Section 2301.010 and a program designed to create incentives for insurers to write windstorm and hail insurance, tornado insurance, and wildfire insurance voluntarily to cover property located in a catastrophe area, especially property located on the barrier islands of this state.

SECTION _____. Section 2210.151, Insurance Code, is amended to read as follows:

SECTION _____. Section 2210.152(a), Insurance Code, is amended to read as follows:

(a) The plan of operation must:

(1) provide for the efficient, economical, fair, and nondiscriminatory administration of the association; and

(2) include:

(A) a plan for the equitable assessment of the members of the association to defray losses and expenses;

(B) underwriting standards;

(C) procedures for accepting and ceding reinsurance;

(D) procedures for obtaining and repaying amounts under any financial instruments authorized under this chapter;

(E) procedures for determining the amount of insurance to be provided to specific risks;

(H) other provisions as considered necessary by the department to implement the purposes of this chapter.

AMENDMENT NO. 4 - REMARKS

REPRESENTATIVE ISRAEL: Mr. Paddie, thank you as usual for your professionalism in these situations. I appreciate your time. To take you back to when you presented this to our Public Safety Committee, there was testimony from DPS about this situation. And this is a big issue for our constituents, correct?

REPRESENTATIVE PADDIE: It was brought up during that hearing. I think one of the challenges that we have in looking at this—obviously, there's ongoing litigation as it relates to this—is that it was somewhat disturbing to hear some testimony that would have you believe that we actually may not be doing all the efforts that we could be in sending folks to go online because of the challenges we have with the lawsuit there.

ISRAEL: To clarify for those who are listening and who might not have been watching the meeting, DPS testified that the effort that has been going on for years and years, which is to encourage constituents to get out of line, go online, make use of online tools, and lower those wait times—that has been sort of iced or put on hold because of this other litigation issue that has yet to be resolved. Is that correct?

PADDIE: That is the testimony as I understood it.

ISRAEL: I know it's frustrating to all of us that there's a simple answer that we're not taking advantage of. Were you aware, Mr. Paddie, that where we are right now is that there was a ruling from a federal judge that said Texas was not complying with the Motor Voter Act, and if we don't take care of this, we are in already to those who filed the lawsuit for $750,000?

PADDIE: I'm not aware of all the details. I am aware of the lawsuit that you're mentioning.

ISRAEL: Well, Mr. Paddie thank you for engaging with me on this. I appreciate your time, and I wish we would be able to help our constituents with something as simple as getting their driver's license renewed and at the same time renewing their voter registration.

PADDIE: Thank you for your questions.

In matters of concurrent jurisdiction with the district court, the district clerk shall charge the same fees as are allowed in district court cases, except that in cases described by Subsections (a)(1)(A) and (2) and in misdemeanor cases other than those involving official misconduct, the clerk may not charge higher fees than the fees charged by county clerks for similar cases ~~[and proceedings, and the county clerk serves as clerk of the court in all other matters].~~

(h) If a jury trial is requested in a case that is in a county court at law's jurisdiction, the jury shall be composed of 6 members unless the constitution requires a 12-member jury. Failure to object before a 6-member jury is seated and sworn constitutes a waiver of a 12-member jury.

(i) If any cause or proceeding is lodged with the district clerk and the district clerk files, docket, or assigns the cause or proceeding in or to a county court at law that does not have subject matter jurisdiction over the cause or proceeding, the filing, docketing, or assignment of the cause or proceeding in or to a county court at law is considered a clerical error. That clerical error must be corrected by a judgment or order nunc pro tunc. The cause or proceeding is considered filed, docketed, or assigned to the district court of the local administrative judge in the first instance rather than to the county court at law. The judge of a county court at law who acts in the cause or proceeding is considered assigned to the district court of the local administrative judge for that ~~purpose and has all the powers of the judge of that district court under the assignment [Practice in a county court at law is that prescribed by law for county courts, except that practice and procedure, rules of evidence, issuance of process and writs, and all other matters pertaining to the conduct of trials and hearings involving family law cases and proceedings are governed by this section and the laws and rules pertaining to district courts. If a family law case is tried before a jury, the jury shall be composed of 12 members].~~
