Thank you for the leadership of our speaker and the spirit of mutual respect enjoyed this session. Father, I pray for all my colleagues, their families, their jobs, their businesses, and their districts. We ask all your best blessings on their lives, healing for any illnesses, comfort for any grieving, strength through difficulties, travel mercies on the way home, and a new sense of love and care for their constituents. Today, as we finish our work, we do so in such a way that we can say that the Lone Star of Texas has gained a new lustre by the work of the 86th Legislature. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

(e) The governing body of an independent school district that governs a junior college district under Subchapter B, Chapter 130, in a county with a population of more than two million may dedicate a specific percentage of the local tax levy to the use of the junior college district for facilities and equipment or for the maintenance and operating expenses of the junior college district. To be effective, the dedication must be made by the governing body on or before the date on which the governing body adopts its tax rate for a year. The amount of local tax funds derived from the percentage of the local tax levy dedicated to a junior college district from a tax levy may not exceed the amount that would be levied by five percent of the no-new-revenue [~~effective~~] tax rate for the tax year calculated as provided by Section 26.04, Tax Code, on all property taxable by the school district. For a tax year, the statewide average no-new-revenue [~~effective~~] tax rate for school district maintenance and operation revenues is the tax rate that, if applied to the statewide total appraised value of taxable property for every school district in the state determined under Section 403.302, would produce an amount equal to the statewide total amount of maintenance and operation taxes imposed in the tax year for every school district in the state.

(i) Not later than the seventh day after the final date the comptroller certifies to the commissioner of education changes to the property value study conducted under Subchapter M, Chapter 403, the comptroller shall certify to the Teacher Retirement System of Texas:

ADDRESS BY REPRESENTATIVE BURROWS

The chair recognized Representative Burrows who addressed the house, speaking as follows:

As we wrap up this legislative session, the Texas House republican caucus followed its tradition of selecting a freshman representative of the year to recognize a single outstanding republican member of the freshman class. The selection of our freshman of the year is a very personal and challenging decision for our members, and to select one out of 11 freshman members put our members through the very tough situation of casting that tough vote. The Texas House was blessed with a great class of freshmen who stepped up, put differences aside to work together, and are leaving the state in a better place than it was five months ago. We are so grateful to all of our freshman members this session and appreciate their service.

With that in mind, selecting Representative Brad Buckley as our freshman of the year truly speaks volumes of his character and leadership. Representative Buckley came into the Texas House this year as a freshman representative from Salado. He was committed to supporting Texas veterans and military spouses, advocating for the needs of rural Texans, and fighting for the taxpayers. Some might have even thought that being a veterinarian meant he didn't have enough people skills to hem in the human patients, let alone stubborn hardheaded elected officials, but he's gone above and beyond his leadership for our role in the body. Throughout the last few months, Representative Buckley has held countless negotiations and played an integral role in helping pass invaluable legislation. By working on the house floor and behind the scenes, putting your constituents first, and taking pride in the state and the Republican Party, you've set a great example for what an effective, responsible statesman looks like. Thank you for your service, your work ethic, and your desire to serve this state. As chairman of the Texas House republican caucus, it is my honor to present you with this small token of appreciation and recognize you as republican caucus freshman of the year.

ADDRESS BY REPRESENTATIVE C. TURNER

The chair recognized Representative C. Turner who addressed the house, speaking as follows:

It is my pleasure to now introduce and award the democratic caucus freshman of the year. The democratic caucus had a very tough decision to make. I know in my time here this is the most number of freshmen we have ever had in our caucus, with 20 total freshman members this year of the house democratic caucus. And I will say that for each of these 20 members, they all did an outstanding job. They all hit the ground running. They all came with energy and enthusiasm and ideas and a desire to learn and a desire to make an immediate impact. And what I admire so much about this freshman class, and I know our entire caucus and I think this whole body respects this as well, is that they didn't say, well, we're freshmen so we're going to just sit back and watch and learn and not do anything. No, they jumped right in. They were in debates, they were working on bills and passing legislation, and were active to the fullest extent. So it was a very tough decision because we had a number of really, really outstanding freshmen. But we had an election on Friday, and we had a vote, and the caucus chose our freshman of the year.

So at this time, it is my pleasure to present our 2019 86th Legislature house democratic caucus freshman of the year to Representative John Bucy III. As Representative Bucy comes up here, I'll just say that he impressed all of us from day one. He worked very, very hard and effectively for his district in Williamson County. And frankly, a lot of days you wouldn't have thought he was a freshman because he just knew what he was doing all the time, it seemed. He did a great job serving on the Elections Committee and in every other capacity in which he served, and we appreciate his leadership on health care issues and the work he did on that this session. So it is our pleasure to present this award to Representative Bucy.

Representative Cain moved to print remarks by Representative Burrows and by Representative C. Turner.

The motion prevailed.

ADDRESS BY REPRESENTATIVE ANCHIA

The chair recognized Representative Anchia who addressed the house, speaking as follows:

I'd like to invite all members of the Mexican American legislative caucus, the oldest and largest Latino legislative caucus in the entire country, to come on up front, especially those members of the executive committee. Members, as many of you know, it has been the tradition of the Mexican American legislative caucus to have its executive committee members convene and select a freshman of the year. This year, we have selected someone who was born and raised in Dallas, Texas, and like many of us, she is the proud daughter of immigrants to this country. Her parents emigrated to the United States from Mexico in pursuit of the American dream, and before joining us as a colleague, she was already fighting for voting rights and working to protect immigrant families. She has shown us on this house floor that she will fight for the underdog and work alongside each of us to get the job done. Therefore, on behalf of all the members of the Mexican American legislative caucus, I am so grateful to present this gavel to our freshman of the year, Jessica González of Dallas.

REMARKS ORDERED PRINTED

Representative Rosenthal moved to print remarks by Representative Anchia.

The motion prevailed.

ADDRESS BY REPRESENTATIVE DUTTON

The chair recognized Representative Dutton who addressed the house, speaking as follows:

As most of you know or may not know, this is the 45th year of the legislative black caucus, who have always been in the spirit of the conscience of this legislature. So let me invite all of my caucus members to share with me this morning up here, if I could. We had a round of elections about electing our freshman of the year. We have three outstanding freshmen, Representative Bowers, Representative Cole, and Representative Sherman. They all have had outstanding years, and so what we did is we elected all three of them as freshman of the year. So thank you all very much. Thank you for their service, and thank you to each one of them for their commitment not only to their districts but certainly to the continued evolution of this caucus. And I want to thank each and every one of the members of this caucus for allowing me to serve as the president and chair of the legislative black caucus. Thank you all very much. And I should say this, I love all of you all, and some of you all I love so much I'd love to hug you around the neck.
